Bookworm Buzz

Mouse's Wood - incredible, keepsake book that you'll want to shout about. Seasonal magic, tender, rhyming text, secret doors and whimsical illustrations. Pure joy!

Did you know that extinct animals are actually hiding amongst us? Paddy's latest book Dodos Are Not Extinct is hilariously enticing and has you wanting to read again and again. Great environmental message.

New children's publisher Neon Squid is one to watch for non-fiction texts. Tales of Ancient World is one of their new titles and a real treat. Perfect for those who like a 'story' style of facts.

Katya Balen has done it again. Another incredible, breathtaking read - The Light in Everything. You will fall deeply into the world of Tom and Zofia. A must read.

Caterpillars

The perfect non-fiction companion to The Very Hungry Caterpillar. Stunning images as you would expect from National Geographic in a sturdy, chunky board book design.

The Fletcher series of books are about different aspects of the natural world and this one goes through metamorphosis in such a tender way. Sublimely illustrated and as always a wow end spread.

A story of metamorphosis with a classic ugly duckling twist. Yuval brings delicate illustrative wonders to Julia's story and you also get a brilliant little non-fiction text with lots of facts about caterpillars, butterflies and moths.

Frances Stickley

A delightful author who writes varied books in rhyming form. Her words have a playful patter on the tongue and her stories are dreamy.

Did you know Frances is a HUGE Moomin fan and would secretly love to live in Moominvalley!

Happy Yak Board Books

Happy Yak is an imprint of Quarto and have a wonderful range of books for younger readers.

Trapped in a lift, nowhere to hide! Which animal is parping? Can you guess? Lots of fun.

Love the ABC series of books. A caption for each letter of the alphabet associated with bedtime. Then a further sentence. Do check out ABC Democracy.

Magazines

A magazine for story lovers. Ideal for 3-6 year olds. Pre-readers can have the stories, that include a longer story, shorter story and comic strip, read to them and readers can enjoy themselves.

You can add on to your subscription an mp3 file or CD to get the audio for the longer and shorter story. There's also games and activities and an animal of the month.
